

WHAT WOMEN WANTIN WEB 3.0

JUNE 2022

INCREASE IN INTEREST FROM WOMEN IN THE METAVERSE MONTH-OVER-MONTH

15%

THE CONTRADICTION

Metaverse experiences are still largely geared towards men.

Consumer interest in the metaverse continues to grow exponentially, with interest from women growing at a rate of +15% month-over-month¹. However, metaverse experiences are still largely geared towards men—with males dominating the creation and purchases of virtual goods.

EWG Unlimited, in partnership with The Female Quotient, has conducted an in-depth look into the reactions, motivations and needs of women in a new Web 3.0 world. Using first-party data and focusing on four key themes—Community, Aesthetics, Accessibility, and Talent—this report will uncover powerful approaches for brands to successfully engage with women across virtual experiences and immersive media.

WHY WOMEN, AND WHY NOW?

Women make up nearly half of all online communities, but female audiences and creators have long been overlooked or sidelined at the forefront of technological innovation.

With the rise of Web 3.0, brand leaders can empower digital ownership and inclusivity for women, and they can do so while the rules of Web 3.0 are still on the cusp of creation.

Metaverse platform aesthetics are even more important for young women. For women ages 18-34: aesthetics are the second most important factor in continued metaverse engagement, behind number one socialization.

Most Web 3.0 platforms and goods are currently built by men.

As interest from women in Web 3.0 commodities continues to rise, men continue to dominate how these technologies are engineered.

WHAT IT ALL BOILS DOWN TO:

The world of Web 3.0 is still in its earliest stage. Brands, consumers, women, men—everyone is navigating a new world of interactivity and ownership. In this state of mass transition, we are inclined to call the current state of the internet, "Web 2.5."

Excitingly, women are ready to take the reins, with 70% claiming that they could be motivated to visit the metaverse. Brands have a major opportunity to adjust their Web 3.0 strategies today to empower and educate women of all ages and backgrounds.

A PLAYBOOK FOR ENTERING THE METAVERSE

Most brands are still in the very early stages of Web 3.0 adoption, with 46% of business professionals stating that they are unfamiliar with the metaverse and 24% stating that they are still in an experimentation phase.

EWG Unlimited and The FQ have created a step-by-step brand playbook for marketing leaders looking to maximize brand engagements, and take their first steps into the metaverse.

The Female Quotient and EWG Unlimited. June 2022. Women In Web 3.0 Workplace Polling [LinkedIn, The FQ Feed]. Published by The Female Quotient and EWG Unlimited.

Omni-channel marketing strategies expand into the metaverse. Analyze your brand needs and target audience to determine your virtual footprint.

Engage with existing customers and attract new loyalists by creating a bespoke brand environment complete with your unique messaging and visual identifiers.

Experiment with reaching new Gen Z communities by plugging elements of your brand into gamified platforms like Roblox or Decentraland.

Create a crypto-native community building strategy to capture new audiences (target and engage consumers that begin their journeys on Web 3.0).

Community influencers and talent continue to drive conversations and conversions in a Web 3.0 world. Engage talent in innovative new ways, such as:

Launch influential avatars by utilizing real world talent and creating immersive content and experiences that resonate with native audiences.

Generate buzz by partnering with talent to conduct live chats, create NFTs and facilitate shopping experiences or entertainment exhibitions within the metaverse.

Engage talent to excite their community and drive traffic to your virtual brand experiences.

Consider NFTs and the metaverse as an extension of your customer retention strategy and an opportunity to authentically connect with Millennials and Gen Z.

Use NFTs to create a deeper connection with customers beyond single transactions, as evolving traditional loyalty programs.

Think of your NFT holders as brand evangelists and treat them as VIP customers.

Continue growing your audience and customer data pool with emerging virtual communications channels, such as Discord or Reddit.

MERGE DIGITAL WITH PHYSICAL

Today's consumer exists across physical and digital spaces—and brands should be prepared to meet them in both arenas.

Accompany traditional product drops with virtual content or wearables.

Create virtual-first product lines that can be worn in a variety of metaverse spaces.

Increase conversions by integrating 3D video and imagery of your products onto your E-commerce site.

METHODOLOGY

QUANTITATIVE METHODOLOGY (CONSUMER SURVEY)

A total of 487 self-administered online interviews were conducted with females in the US. Interviewing was conducted May 31 - June 3, 2022, using the Ipsos US Omnibus. For each multiple choice question, respondents were instructed to select all answers that best applied to them.

They serve more than 5,000 clients across the world with 75 business solutions.

EXECUTIVE INTERVIEWS

In-depth one-on-one interviews were conducted via Zoom with female executives across multiple industry verticals. The executives were considered Web 3.0 decision-makers and influencers within their respective organizations.

The primary objective for each interview was to explore each organization's involvement in Web 3.0 including marketing strategy, long-term goals, company structure specific to Web 3.0 and plans to engage customers in Web 3.0 and the metaverse. Each interview was conducted by an executive from The Female Quotient and was approximately 30 minutes in length.

CONSUMER POLLING

Several polls were conducted during May and June 2022 with The Female Quotient's LinkedIn community. Each poll was posted on The FQ's LinkedIn page for 3 days. Visitors to The FQ LinkedIn feed had the opportunity to opt-in and answer the poll(s). LinkedIn polls allow for each respondent to select only one answer choice, as well as the ability to leave a comment. An aggregate of 6,000+ poll respondents were surveyed throughout the duration of the study.
